Flood in Baltimore.

The Whisky Fraud Cases.

Special from St. Louis says the U. S. grand jury have returned twenty indictments against persons connected with the whisky ring. One third of the indictments are against Gen. John McDonald and Joseph Fox, ex supervisor and ex-revenue agent. The others are against distillers and distillers' gaugers. So far McKee, of the Globe-Democrat, and Constable McGrew, the latter collector, have not been indicted. McGrew was disbursing agent. He said the weekly payments, as he understood, were—McKee $1,000 or $2,000, Joyce $200, Fox $500. Every $100 McGrew says the figures were changed from time to time, as parties were added under the unequal division.

Ex-Fale Report Refuted.

ST. LOUIS, July 16.—The Republican publishes an official report of John A. Joyce, revenue agent, relative to his investigations about one year ago of distilleries, rectifying houses, cigar stores and other establishments on the Pacific coast, from which revenue is derived. The report is addressed to W. Douglas, commissioner of internal revenue, and shows the revenue laws have been violated by parties in California, Oregon and other places on the Pacific coast. It is made public only to refute the recent charges by San Francisco papers that, in consequence of great pressure brought to bear upon him while in California, Mr. Joyce failed to find and report irregularities in the whisky business and made a favorable report of his investigations.

Death of a Defaulter by Suicide.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 16.—George H. Jackson, the defaulting United States collector, whose alleged theft of $45,000 was given in these dispatches yesterday, died this afternoon. It is feared the question whether he had taken poison, but a post mortem was held this forenoon, at the instance of the insurance company, Jackson having $12,500 on his life. Detective Bickner positively refuses to give additional facts to the public in the Journal. It is thought Jackson's speculations have been carried on for some time, the collector reposing implicit confidence in Jackson's honesty that he was able to cover the evidence of his crime. It was discovered yesterday by a special agent of the treasury department, who had been instructed to examine into discrepancies of some $35,000 in the accounts of the Louisville office. Jackson was a prominent member of the church, a representative from the 15th ward in the board of school trustees and was considered a prosperous man who knew him. It is found he has been living for some time in a style which his salary of $2,000 did not warrant. He had given a bond for $2,500, and there may be sufficient surplus over and above the collector for the deficiency. The news of the defalcation created a profound sensation in the city. Jackson leaves a wife and several children.

NEW YORK, July 16.—This afternoon Judge Donohue gave his decision ordering the bill of particulars asked for by the defendant in the civil suit of the people vs. Wm. M. Tweed.

Foster, chief justice of the circuit court of this State, while riding in a Pullman car from Boston, last evening, was shot in the right arm, through the open window, as the train passed Merrimac station. The shot was doubtless fired by a tramp in revenge for being put off the cars the night before.

Balloon Ascension Fears of a Disaster from a Storm.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Prof. Donaldson and Mr. Maxwald, of the Evening Journal, made a balloon ascension yesterday, leaving this city at 5 P. M. The balloon took an easterly course across the lake and was seen by a schooner at 7 with the basket lying in the water. As the schooner neared them a balloon again ascended, and bore away northeast, and was last heard from them since, and as a violent storm passed over the lake about midnight, it is feared nothing but disaster can be recorded.

WASHINGTON CITY.

What Commissioner Elliott Thinks of Alaska.

A Washington special says Elliott, the special agent sent to Alaska, has submitted his report, from which it appears that the lands are unfit for agriculture; that the fisheries are not extensive and not profitable; that there is no evidence of mineral deposits of commercial value and that the only considerable industry is that of the annual sale of seals and a few less important fur-bearing animals, the profits of which go to the Alaska Commercial Company.

The Secretary of State takes his New Quarters.

Master Attorney Fisher Declines a Polite Invitation.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Ex-Judge Fisher, attorney for the District of Columbia, has not resigned as reported by the attorney-general. The general charges against him are carelessness and neglect in the administration of his office. He has just returned from a visit to Long Branch to see the president with a view of retention in office. Meanwhile Fisher Wells, several years a resident of Washington, having been tendered the office, he will accept it.

Opium Promised by the Attorney-General.

The attorney-general next week announces his action on the Chorpening mail case involving nearly half a million dollars.

Coinage for the Year.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Coining for the fiscal year ending June 30 at mints, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Carson, will approximate as follows: Gold, $4,000,000; silver dollars, $6,000,000; subsidiary silver coin, $5,000,000; minor coinage, $250,000.

No Truth in it.

There is no truth in the rumor that Germany and England are co-operating with the United States in urging on the Spanish government the policy of abandoning the West Indies possessions.

Commission to Visit the Osages.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The secretary of the interior appointed the member elect from New Hampshire, Van Voorhees, of Ohio, Judge J. C. Parker, and Inspector Kemble, as a commission to visit the Osage Indians and examine into their condition. Dr. John Hancock, of Texas, will be added if he accepts the position.

That's What's the Matter with Fisher.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The complaint of the postmaster-general against District Attorney Fisher was in consequence of repeated indiscretions and want of interest displayed by the district attorney in the prosecution of the Hinds case. Seeing this, and fearing that Fisher had too much business on his own account to allow him to properly attend to these cases, the postmaster general offered assistance in the employment of the best counsel, which Fisher declined. The postmaster-general reported to the President, and was directed by him to make an offer to Fisher. He did so, and the offer was again declined. Fisher assuring the postmaster-general that he would attend to the case. Lack of interest and failure to devote the proper time to the case before the trial, errors occurred which resulted in the acquittal of Hinds.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Another Great Freshet.

LONDON, July 16.—Dispatches from Cardiff say the rivers Taff and Ely have overflowed. The adjacent towns are under water for miles. Great quantities of property have been washed away. Hundreds of the inhabitants of Georgetown have removed to Cardiff in boats to escape the flood. At last accounts the water was reported to be rising rapidly at Whitehall.

A Blunder.

PARIS, July 16.—The majority of the morning papers, including the organs of the moderate Republicans, express the opinion that Gambetta erred yesterday in attacking Buffet in the assembly. All agree that the sitting was an unfortunate one for the left.

More of the Doings of the Shootists.

LONDON, July 16.—Shortly after the American riflemen arrived at Wimbledon to-day Lord Wharncliffe visited them, and accompanied them to the council tent, where they were received by Secretary Mildmay. After the usual courtesies the Americans were shown over the camp. They will shoot first to-morrow in the St. Leger sweepstakes at 200 yards each. Each competitor has ten shots.

The American Team Pressing a Good Thing.

LONDON, July 15.—The American rifle team will compete individually at Wimbledon for the Albert cup, value £50; the Arthur rifle, worth £100; the Derby and St. Leger sweepstakes and for 192 extra prizes. They go to Wimbledon to-day.

At the competition open to Americans at Wimbledon, they will have an opportunity to shoot for Buss prizes in the pavillion, Curtis and Harvey rifle, Ordo and a few other matches. In the several contests the rules require the use of English rifles. The Americans had some practice with these arms. At the extra series of matches to-day Gen. Aiken, of the American team, made 28 out of a possible score of 35, and Sir Henry Halford, a crack British shot, made 34 scores. Of the other numbers of the American team who took part in shooting are not remarkable.

Freshets Subsiding.

LONDON, July 16.—The weather is unusually cold. Rain ceased this morning, and water in the inundated districts is subsiding.

An Explanation by Germany.

The Public Powers bill finally passed, by a vote of 559 yeas to 50 nays.

A resolution was adopted to discuss the budget on Monday and to continue until August 8th. This course was declared urgent by a vote of 356 to 319.

The motion by the Left not to adjourn till the Senate bill and budget were voted, and Senators to be chosen by the Senate and Chamber, was negatived by a vote of 331 to 371. The Left reproached the Government with betraying the constitution.

Spanish War News.

MADRID, July 16.—Bands of Carlists have taken refuge in France. The commander of the French forces at Pauhes has transmitted to Paris for orders as to the course he shall pursue.

The provinces of Valencia and Castelar are now free of Carlists. The insurrection is confined to the mountains in Navarre, Biscay, and Catalonia provinces. The headquarters of Gen. Javellar are at Sarani.

Inquiry into the Loss of the Vicksburg.

LIVERPOOL, July 16.—Inquiry into the loss of the Vicksburg is closed, and the commission will send a report to the board of trade. It is understood the verdict exonerates the captain from all blame.

CANADA.

The Toronto Globe does not Assent to the London Standard's Snobbery.

CHICAGO, July 16.—A special from Toronto says the Globe this morning published an article of the Tribune which comments on the attitude of the London Standard toward the United States, as well as similar ill-feeling and New York Herald, Boston Advertiser, and Buffalo Courier, which the Globe fully endorses. Lord Dufferin says the Americans may, with perfect safety, accept his civilities as representing the sentiments of the people in Canada. He also says if American journals discuss the manifest destiny of annexation at all, it will be on most purely speculative ground only, and express the very friendliest feeling for England by implication of the Canadian view on the subject.

Father Olchne Resists the Civil Authority.

MONTREAL, July 16.—Father Rousell Olchne, of the parish church in this city, has written a long letter to Dunbar, counsel in the Ginbold case, in which he sets the latter at defiance, as to the execution of the late judgement of the council in this matter. The gist of the letter is, I don't care a straw more than in 1859, the right of the civil authorities to interfere in questions which belong only to ecclesiastical domain, and notwithstanding my deep respect for my sovereign and sovereign and my perfect submission to her authority, I am and will always be obliged to refuse sepulture to J. Ginbord in consecrated ground, as long as my bishop forbids me to grant it.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

Steamer Sunk.

ST. JOHNS, July 16.—The steamer Champlain, which ran ashore at Sorrentit rock, sunk in 10 minutes, and it is supposed broke in two.

CIVIL SERVICE IN 1803.

THE QUALIFICATIONS OF OFFICEHOLDERS UNDER JEFFERSON.

The following letter from Thomas Jefferson has just been brought to light. It is worth reading, as a specimen of civil-service operation before "the interests of the party" became the first consideration in the making of federal appointments:

"WASHINGTON, July 15, '03.—DEAR SIR: I yesterday signed a commission appointing you one of the commissioners to receive and determine the titles of land held on the east side of Pearl river. The place of session will be Fort Stoddart. I am happy in having in that commission the name of a person already so well known to the public as to insure their confidence. The other commissioners will be Mr. Robert Carter Nicholas, of Kentucky, son of the late George Nicholas, of that State. I am desirous by appointing to the register's office some worthy inhabitant of that part of the country, but I have never been able to get a recommendation of any one. He should be of perfect integrity, good understanding, and if a lawyer, so much the better. Under these circumstances, I have thought it best to ask you to take charge of a blank commission, to be filled up by yourself as soon after your arrival there as you can acquire information of the best character. Your own judgment will suggest to you the advantage of keeping it entirely secret, that you have such a power, in order that you may obtain disinterested information. But I am obliged to impose on you another task, quite out of the line of your official duty, yet within that of a citizen of the United States. We have had no means of acquiring any knowledge of the number, nature, and extent of our settlements west of Pearl river, yet it is extremely important we should receive accurate information. I have therefore taken the liberty of stating some queries to which I will pray your attention, and that you will take all the pains you can to obtain full and faithful answers. I leave this place in a few days for Monticello, to remain there through the months of August, and September. I pray you to accept my friendly salutations and assurances of great esteem and respect. TH. JEFFERSON.

Col Ephriam Kirby."

A NEW POTATO BUG.—The Chicago Journal of July 3d says: "A new potato bug has made its appearance in this part of the State, which is apparently more voracious and destructive than its predecessor—the Colorado beetle. The new pest is long and thin in form, of a dove color, and suddenly makes its appearance in the potato fields in swarms. In Will county and in the southern part of Cook county the potato fields are literally alive with them. A gentlemen at Blue Island, in this county, exhibited a few specimens of them at the Journal office this morning, assuring us that they have appeared in swarms in that town, and are making sad havoc in the potato patches. Paris green will destroy them."

A Griswold street fruit seller yesterday observed an old man pinching a cocoanut and handling it as if he had hold of an apple, and he stepped to the door and asked: "Would you like to buy a nut?" "Wual, I thought some of it," replied the old man; "but I guess I'll wait till they get a little softer—it's coming on to the sickly season and a feller ought to be careful."—Detroit Free Press.

CHICO, Cal., July 16.—About 11 o'clock last night a large barn belonging to Emerson & Deering, farmers, near St. John's, Colusa county, took fire burning about 150 tons of hay, 30 head of horses and mules, besides wagons, harness, etc. Three farm hands were sleeping in the barn, two of whom were burned to death. The third barely saved his life. Cause of fire unknown. Loss about $10,000.

UTAH.

The Church Magnates are all Right.

BEAVER, Utah, July 16.—The testimony of Jno. D. Lee, as well as other important witnesses, will entirely refute all charges which have been made against Brigham Young and the leaders of the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City. It will be proven that he (Brigham Young) sent an emphatic command that the deed should not be committed.

FARMING ITEMS.

Harvest hands are now in demand on White and Duwamish rivers, at $2 per day and board.

Hon. Jos. Engle, of French Prairie, cut six acres of wheat last Monday, the first of which we have heard.

Ten horses are now being trained on the fair grounds preparing for the Washington county fair this fall.

About this time watch the papers for tall wheat and oat stalks. The Mercury has seen some seven feet high, the average of the field, of course.

The hay crop in Washington county will be short this year. Some late spring wheat will also be very short unless there is rain within a week.

J. B. Sperry has 900 head of sheep on Willow creek, Umatilla county, half-breed Leicesters, crossed with common stock, that sheared on an average seven pounds.

New potatoes from Boise valley are retailing in the Silver City market at 12½ cents per pound; cabbages, onions and turnips, 8 cents per pound, and cauliflower at two bits a head.

Mr. Cal Geer, living in the Waldo Hills, in the vicinity of Silverton, sowed in February one and a half acres of rye, which he has just finished mowing and curing for feed, and the yield is six tons.

The Echo says grass is plentiful on the east side of the Cascade mountains and stock are doing well. Butter can be had for 10 cents a pound and eggs 10 cents per dozen; other things in proportion, but with no market therefor.

Mr. Sam. McMeekan, of Harrisburg precinct, Linn county, has this season sown 300 acres in wheat, oats and barley, and expects to harvest off of that area in the neighborhood of 10,000 bushels—6,000 bushels of wheat, 2,500 of oats, and 1,500 bushels of barley.

Mr. Wm. Froman, who lives in Baker county, states that the growing crops in his neighborhood are looking unusually prosperous. He thinks the hay and grain of this season will be far ahead of the season preceding. The recent showers have aided vegetation wonderfully. Grass is plentiful.

The grangers in the region of Mill Plain have purchased two acres of land at Fisher's Landing, some eight miles east of Vancouver, on which they have built a very substantial wharf, 99 feet long, and 60 feet out into the water, giving them some 15 feet depth at low tide. This wharf, when completed, will be a fine improvement, and of great advantage to the people in that part of the country, which really speaks volumes in their favor as to their enterprise. They have also constructed a warehouse on said wharf 40x24 feet, and a granary half on the mainland 40x22 feet, which is put up in superb style as far as they have gone. These are the kind of improvements that help to build up a country.

WHAT THREE OR FOUR FOOLS CAN DO.

This, from the Philadelphia Times, is timely enough:

What a god-send Southern fools are these days? Not that there are more fools, or more thorough fools, south of Mason and Dixon's line than north of it, for that account would probably balance, but Southern fools command a premium because they can "fire the Northern heart," particularly of the politicians and dependents who are hanging on the rugged edge of political despair, and waiting, with more than Micawber anxiety, for something to turn up. But for the facts that Jeff. Davis is always good for one speech or letter, or both, at least once a year, in which to utter all manner of foolish things; that Beauregard can be goaded to explain and defend his black-flag letter when a Confederate commander in the field, and that such fulminated fools as General Preston, of South Carolina, can be depended on for a frantic effusion in support of the lost cause, and in denunciation of those who disconfited it, at least once in every heated term, what would the organs do? Perhaps three more helpless men do not live in the Union. They are without party or following, but they can talk, and they can complain, and they can defend what the irreversible judgment of mankind has settled as indefensible, and the organs, perspiring under the patriotism of postoffice and revenue stamps, gush with indignation at the rebellious South. The last of these follies come from General Preston, who orated recently before the alumni of the University of Virginia. He traces the genealogy of the Yankees back to "escaped convicts," and calls such celebrations as that of Bunker Hill, on the 17th ult., a burning shame, thus "to crawl on our bellies to negro and New England temples." We commend General Preston to Jeff. Davis, General Beauregard and Admiral Semmes. They should hasten to form a joint stock association, with very limited liability, for promoting the growth of fools. They may fail in schooling many followers, but none will question the genuineness of the original capital.

Tuesday, the 13th, Mr. Chas. Dubruille, while at work in the sawmill of F. E. Robinson & Bro., of Corvallis, lost a finger, by its coming in contact with a saw. On the next day, Mr. Wm. Kiefer, at the same mill, met with a still more painful accident, by his arm coming in contact with a circular saw in full motion. The arm was painfully lacerated, and in all probability will have to be amputated near the elbow.

THE DUBLIN FIRE.

MAIL DETAILS OF THE RECENT TREMENDOUS CONFLAGRATION.

(From the Dublin Daily News, June 8th.)

Last night, while the peaceful excitement of military exercises delighted a thousand eyes in the Exhibition Palace, and beaming faces rose tier above tier in the Gaiety Theater, where a vast throng had assembled, attracted by the presence of the American riflemen, the shriek of affrighted women, children convulsed with terror, and men trembling with the panic of over haste and wild alarm, produced a scene of dreadful commotion in one of the oldest, poorest, and most thickly populated districts of Dublin. The Lord Mayor, who, with his suite, sat among the brilliant crowd, in the front rows of the theater, was seen suddenly to rise and leave. The vast assembly knew not why, but a message, quietly dropped to him, had brought the news that he was wanted to take charge of the civic and military forces at a fire which had broken out in the liberties of Dublin, and which was of a

MAGNITUDE AND INTENSITY

That, had, perhaps never been equaled in this city. A little after eight o'clock last night flames were observed issuing from the bonded spirit stores of Mr. Laurence Malone, in Chamber street, and they rapidly shot ahead in uncontrollable violence. How the fire commenced appears to be at present uncertain, but statements are made to the effect that it had its origin in the carpenter's shop, where, after the place had been locked up for the night it had begun to develop itself, and before being noticed had extended into the whisky stores which surrounded it on every side. The stores, which reach nearly a furlong in length, facing Chamber street, have a depth of about the same distance into Cork street, situated on the opposite side of the block of buildings. Tall dwelling-houses, set in tenements and swarming with inhabitants in every room—and these of the poorest classes in Dublin—adjoined and flanked the bonded stores, as well as fronted them on the further sides of the bordering streets. The end of the row of stores, thus limited by the parallel lines of Cork and Chamber streets, was brought up at right angles in Ardee street by the malting stores and brewery of Mr. Francis Reid, and by the stables belonging to the extensive brewery of Mr. Watkins, this brewery itself lying on the remote side of Ardee street.

OVER 3,000 PUNCHEONS OF WHISKY,

All of great strength, and very high above proof, were stored in the building in which the fire was first perceived. Some give the amount of whisky at nearly twice this number of vessels, some at considerably less; but probably the figures given are a close approximation. Each puncheon contained on an average 150 gallons, and the property was distributed among various owners who had the spirit lying in bond. The block of buildings thus bounded on three sides by Chamber street, Cork street, and Ardee street, covered one of the most inflammable accumulations of material to be found in Dublin; and, accordingly, no sooner did the blaze reach the woodwork of the bonded vaults, than the match was placed to a train of combustibles which no human power could save from utter destruction. In a little time the whisky began to flow from one of the vessels, and instantly the flame and the supply to the flame grew in alarming volume, and spread with a rapidity which only left the spectators dazed and powerless.

HOGSHEAD AFTER HOGSHEAD

Now flew open under the intense heat, and the spirit ran in a stream along the ground, through the streets, and poured down into the sewers, at sides and ends, blazing as it went, and coursing like a liquid torch, darting its forked tongues right and left, upward and all around. The blaze rose a hundred feet high in the yard and stores. The whole building was one seething mass of fire. Puncheons went off with a dull, dread explosion every instant, keeping up a fierce, unearthly cannonade that shook the very ground for miles, and struck a chill into the stoutest heart. The flames of fire rushed more and more wildly forward, ever increasing in intensity and volume, gurgling and hissing over the pavement and into the drains, and through the doorways of the houses on the sloping ground of Ardee street, turning into Mill street, still carrying consternation wherever it poured its blue wave of suffocating vapor and heat. The flood of lighted spirit was by this time two feet deep, rolling and roaring onward, and presently all the houses in the neighborhood burst into one continuous row of flame, which could only be put out when there was nothing more to burn. All hope of saving the houses was given up; and amid the wild screams of the young, the aged and the weak, who

FLED FOR THEIR LIVES

Along the street, men tried to carry from their squalid houses what little furniture and property they possessed. When all that could be got away was removed the crowd looked on amazed, helpless, paralyzed in the presence of whole streets and squares of houses lighting the sky with their lurid flames that was reflected again for miles all over the country, and gave light enough to read at four miles. There was but one seething pile of livid charcoal and lighted spirit in the stores and in the streets. The burning whisky which flowed in a torrent down the sewers, found vent for its pent-up force in explosions which hurled the pavement into the air. Falling beams and blocks of houses came down with a crash now and then, that struck all dumb with horror; and while millions of sparks were whirled high above pieces of the live wood half a pound weight flew about in every direction, and fell upon the spectators near. The wind was not high through the city, but here the flames

SUCKED IN THE AIR IN CIRCLING EDDIES,

To support combustion, and generated half a hurricane. The water engines were present, but of little effect except in minor parts. In Mill street, where a tannery, and in Ardee street, where a knacker's yard had been destroyed, the engines assisted in preventing the extension of the fire, but on both sides of Chamber street they could do little or nothing, and the only check to the conflagration was the erection of dams across the street to prevent the whisky from flowing, and throwing down houses to prevent the progress of the blaze. In some places the whisky was collected in burning lakes two feet deep and several perches in length, from which members of the crowd tried to drink it out of their hats and shoes. But, the crowd, although there were probably 60,000 people present, had even the roughest of them, been taught a wholesome lesson by the Thomas street affair and were perfectly docile and well conduced.

A LINE OF SOLDIERS AND POLICE

Was drawn across all the approaches to the fire, and steadily kept the main portion of the multitude back, while the soldiers of the Second and Fifteen Regiments of the Sixth Dragoons threw up barricades against the streams of liquor, or threw down houses in the line of the approaching fire. Some also mixed the whisky with tan and bog mould, which carts hurriedly drew to the spot, to absorb the inflammable substance. The bonded spirits had not the duty paid, and would therefore be worth 4s 6d a gallon; but even at this rate a loss of over £90,000 is supposed to have been at least sustained. The property, so far as the stores were concerned, was insured in several offices, but many of the sufferers of the Second and Fifteen Regiments of the Sixth Dragoons threw up barricades against the streams of the calls must suffer greatly, notwithstanding that the times of yesterday make their trial less severe than it would have been in winter. Fully fifty houses have been burned down, and altogether a fire more terrible in its action or more destructive in its effect has not for a half a century been witnessed in Dublin, although, fortunately, no human life has been lost by it.

The Echo says: "It is reported that a rich lode of gold and silver-bearing quartz has recently been discovered at Swauk, east of the Cascades; also, that a lode of excellent cinnabar has been discovered some ten miles distant from Swauk. Crowds of miners are rushing in, and great excitement prevails."

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

We find in the New York Times of July 1st the following report of a meeting of the bondholders of the Northern Pacific railway, which will be of interest to our readers:

A general meeting of the bondholders of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company was held yesterday at the office of the company, No. 25 Fifth avenue, for the purpose of taking such steps as might seem proper to promote their interests. The discussion was very elaborate, and the action taken by the bondholders was altogether in the direction of reorganization. At a meeting of bondholders held on March 18th a committee was appointed to consider the best means of forwarding their interests, and after full conference with the company's directors and officers, and a careful consideration of the matters referred to them, they reported a plan which they deemed to be the best possible method of harmonizing all interests and insuring the early completion of the road—the vital point to which, they considered, all energies should be directed.

The meeting yesterday was called to order by Hon. E. D. Sweat, who explained the circumstances which occasioned their being summoned.

The report of the committee above mentioned was read by Samuel Wilkeson, and detailed, in the first place, the action taken in the U. S. circuit court for the 2d judicial circuit and and southern district of New York, when a receiver of the Northern Pacific Railway and all its property was appointed. The order making this appointment was given under proceedings brought by the trustees, in which bona fide holders of bonds to a large amount united. The suit was commenced and the receiver appointed with the full approval of the committee. On May 12th the trustees and the bondholders united with them applied to the court for a final decree, which was granted; and the wisdom of this action was apparent to the committee and received its unanimous approval. Under this decree the company is road and all its property were to be sold for the benefit of the bondholders. The committee felt that this benefit would be best secured by an arrangement between all parties in interest which would satisfy every equity, avoid tedious litigation, and secure the extension of the road. To carry out their purpose of reorganization, they recommended the adoption of the plan published in the Times several weeks ago.

The chairman thought, that before any action was taken on the report, it would be perhaps well to have a statement made by the counsel of the bondholders as to the exact proceedings that had been had before the United States court.

Mr. Frederick Lane, counsel for the bondholders, explained these proceedings at length. Mr. Thuw, of Pittsburg, inquired what provision was there made for such bondholders as might not enter into the plan. Mr. Lane replied that the plan was supposed to give the bondholders absolute power over their new corporation.

Mr. Sweat said his question was a plain one. He had been asked to serve on the committee appointed to act in respect to the purchase of the road. If he served on the committee he wanted to know what was the attitude of the small bondholders, one-third of whom could not be reached in a year. He thought, too, that the common stock element ought not to be permitted to appear in this matter at present, and that it should not be permitted to vote for the next five years. It was a matter of grace, merely, of right. He wanted to know how the sale was to be conducted in reference to the number of small stockholders that could not be reached.

The chairman supposed that, strictly speaking, all bondholders who did not come into the arrangement would be obliged to take a percentage.

Mr. Frederick Billings, at the request of some of the bondholders, made a statement as to the bearing of the plan. When they came together as bondholders they should, he said, lose no time, but on the contrary should endeavor to harmonize everything. He did not think that any one should be asked to bury new money under an old incumbrance, and therefore their object should be to get rid of it as soon as possible, to get a decree and give the property to the bondholders. In the first place they wanted to foreclose this mortgage, but no purchase should be made by outside parties as the committee. If purchased by the trustees they would be always trustees, and a mortgage could never be obtained unless everybody came in. Accordingly they got a committee to purchase subject to stipulations binding them to the bondholders.

Mr. J. W. Wyman Jones thought the plan was defective in many particulars. A radical defect, he said, was that they, the representatives of the first mortgage bondholders, need to give away the road to those who would be the first mortgage bondholders under the provision for the raising of a mortgage not exceeding $25,000 per mile completed and to be completed.

The great majority of the meeting was, however, in favor of dealing with the subject at once, and, on the motion of Mr. Hassler, it was resolved to add to the report the clause that no assessment shall be levied on any bondholder, and that all costs of purchase and expenses of foreclosure shall be paid out of the resources, assets, and income of the company. The time when the holder of common stock shall have the privilege of voting was set down as on and after July 1, 1878.

EX-GOVERNOR JENKINS ON RECONSTRUCTION AND RECONCILIATION.

Perhaps it is a relief to the fossilized rebel to mix a growl with every pleasant utterance on the subject of the relations of amity which are happily taking the place of the old hostility between Northern and Southern people. If it is, we should be sorry to see them deprived of that scanty bit of comfort. But to the liberal minded, whether they were on the side of the Union or in the rebel army, such exhibitions cannot but excite emotions of pity not unmingled with contempt. The advent of the era of good feeling which has evidently dawned, will hardly be much retarded by these unnecessary harrowing up of old animosities, as the men who pursue such a course are fortunately but an insignificant portion of the Southern people, and are recognized as belonging to that class whose sentiments and opinions are merely echoes of the dead past instead of voices of the living present. Of this class is Charles S. Jenkins, ex-Governor of Georgia, who is really a person of very good intentions, despite his Jeremiads, and will, no doubt, be sincerely glad to see the reconciliation complete. Here is the way he mixes up his good wishes and congratulations with his sores:

"The time is propitious, sectional jealousies, heartburnings and discords are dying out. The chasm is being bridged—parties from the one side and the other are rushing to the front and shaking hands across the fast-lessening space of separation. South Carolina and Massachusetts, heretofore the recognized representatives of extreme opinions and feelings, have exchanged greetings and mingled counsels in the shadow of Bunker Hill's towering monument. Public opinion is tending rapidly to the conclusion that reconstruction was a crime against liberty; and even the American Talleyrands are one after another confessing that (according to these ethics) it was worse—a blunder. In view of these encouraging signs of the times, shall we stand aloof and lend no helping hand to the work of regeneration? With all respect, and in all kindness to those who say yes, I must add that this would be simply to sulk, in resentment of past wrongs. But, gentlemen, sulking is not in keeping with Southern character. It is characteristic of Southern minds and Southern hearts to view intelligently the surroundings of the hour, and to bear a prominent part in rectifying whatever of evil may exist, and in turning to the best account apparent good."

EVIDENCE THAT PROVES TOO MUCH.

It is confidently announced at Salt Lake City that the testimony in the trial of John D. Lee for the Mountain Meadow massacre, will show that there is not a syllable of truth in the stories that Brigham Young and the other dignitaries of the Mormon church had anything to do with the commission of this horrible crime, but that on the contrary Brigham "sent an emphatic command that it should not be done." That sounds very well at first, but it overshoots the mark. Brigham must have been knowing to the intention to commit the crime, or he would not have commanded that it be not done. And yet he took no steps to save the families of the immigrants, but left them to be butchered by his Danites, when he could easily have protected them. No assistance was offered them, and no word of warning given them by the men who could easily have stayed the fell assault. He was content to send "an emphatic command" to his bloody agents that they should refrain from the inhuman deed. And when the wholesale assassination was finished in disregard of his "emphatic command," did he bring the murderers to justice? He knew who they were, else how did he know to whom to send that "emphatic command." Not one of them was brought to justice by him, but everything has been done from that day to this, which he and his fellow outlaws of the Mormon Church could do, to thwart investigation, and shield the actual perpetrators of the butchery from punishment. This proposed vindicatory evidence proves too much, if it proves what it claimed for it.

GAMBETTA'S BLUNDER.

It appears the attack of Gambetta on Buffet on last Thursday in the Assembly has caused quite a flutter among the French politicians. All seem to agree that the attack was a mistake. We should say, upon an inspection of the telegraphic report of the debate referred to that the attack was not only a mistake, but an injustice. The charge was that the ministers were giving out different understandings respecting the relation of the Bonapartists and that the government was keeping Bonapartists in position. The language of the ministers,—Buffet and Dufaure were referred to—was not at variance but in harmony so, far as they touched upon the question that so agitated the Liberals. Both of them said in substance that the administration was keeping a close watch upon the movements of the Bonapartists, and that is as much as they could be expected to say. And the other grievance, that of keeping Bonapartists in position was nothing more than that some persons who were officers of the Empire, but who are loyal to the Republic so far as can be judged from their conduct, are retained in the service of the Republic. If this to be held as a crime to have been, in the time of the Empire an officer under Napoleon, how many of the leading minds of France can escape?

A few days ago, says the New York Times, while some laborers were at work on some excavations near Big Prairie, in Monroe county, Mich., they came upon a quantity of bones, forming the skeleton of a mastodon, which were examined and brought to Monroe. One of the trunks was eleven feet in length and seven inches in diameter at its smallest extremity, where a portion seems to have been broken off. Several teeth were found in a greater or less degree of preservation, which measured six inches in diameter, the largest weighing five pounds. One of the ribs was nearly eight feet long, and the entire skeleton must have been twenty or thirty feet in length. The men were compelled to abandon the excavation on account of the water, but pumps have been procured, and an attempt will be made to recover more of the remains

Dean Stanley, in his sermon at Westminster Abbey on Sunday, July 4th, alluding to the Declaration of Independence, contrasted the animosity of former days to the mutual good will of the present time, and said: "Now every American is proud of his English ancestry, and every Englishman is proud of Washington."

The Independent State Convention is called, to be held at Salem on the 10th of August. And now all the conventions are sent to Salem. The Democratic first, then the Independent, then the Republican, and last the Temperance convention, which is to meet at Salem on the 13th of August.

The Pittsburgh Commercial's reading can hardly be as extensive as Macaulay's, or it would not ascribe the authorship of the Canterbury Tales to a recent graduate of Washington and Jefferson college, and speak of the work as a "meritorious rhythmical production."

The Wade Hampton Legion of ex-Confederate soldiers are to hold a reunion in Charleston, S. C., on the 21st inst., the anniversary of the first battle of Bull Run. The leading object is, to collect the necessary records and facts for a complete history of the Legion.

The results of the recent overflow of the Garonne and other streams in the south of France, are the destruction of $3,000 lives and $60,000,000 worth of property.

INDEPENDENT STATE CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Independent State Central Committee, held at Portland, July 16, 1875, it was resolved that a State Independent Convention be held at Salem on the 10th of August, 1875, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating a Candidate for Member of Congress.

The basis of representation adopted is one delegate for every 100 votes cast at the last General Election for T. F. Campbell for Governor, one additional for a fraction of 50 or more, and one delegate at large for each county. Under this apportionment, the several counties are entitled to Delegates in the State Convention, as follows:

Baker	2	Lane	6
Benton	5	Linn	8
Coos	2	Marion	8
Curry	1	Multnomah	12
Columbia	1	Polk	6
Clatsop	1	Tillamook	1
Clackamas	3	Umatilla	5
Douglas	3	Union	5
Grant	2	Wasco	2
Jackson	2	Washington	6
Josephine	1	Yamhill	5
Lake	1

The Committee recommend that the people of the several counties meet either in Primaries or Mass Meetings, as they may deem best, on the 31st day of July, to select Delegates to the State Convention.

USURY.

The case of Chapman vs. Henry Watkins et al, lately decided in the Circuit Court for Multnomah County, presented some features which are of interest to persons dealing in negotiable paper. The facts of this case may be briefly stated:—A man named Henry Watkins, the proprietor of a retail butchering establishment, called "The Washington Market," in this city, induced an honest, hard-working mechanic named Shitker to lend him, from time to time, sums of money equal in the aggregate to the amount of $900; the last of which was lent by Mr. Shuker for the purpose of getting security for the whole; Mr. Shuker, it appears, had accepted from this fellow for the sums loan, greater interest than the law allows. On lending the last $150, a negotiable promissory note for $350, with chattel mortgage on the effects in Washington Market, was executed by this fellow to Mr. Shuker, who placed the mortgage on record. Before maturity of the note, Mr. Shuker (for value) transferred it by endorsement to the plaintiff, who took the same without any notice of the usury. A suit being brought to foreclose the chattel mortgage as against the fellow mentioned, and Messrs. Johnson & Spaulding, subsequent mortgagees of the property, the former (by the separate answer) set up usury, to which answer the plaintiff demurred. The question, therefore, presented to the Court was:

Is the defense of usury available against an innocent bona fide endorsee of negotiable paper, who took the same before maturity?

The Court, after full argument, held that it was—and directed the District Attorney to take steps to secure from Watkins the forfeiture of the $350 lent, to the School Fund.

Whether or not, under the statute, the Court can decree a foreclosure of the chattel mortgage in favor of the School Fund, is yet an open question. It may be that the Court has no such power—in which event, the subsequent mortgagees will get the property, and the School Fund a judgment, which perhaps may be beaten on execution.

We trust our next Legislature will take some steps toward reforming our present usury law, so as to protect innocent purchasers of negotiable paper. As it stands at present, advantage can easily be taken of its provisions against the ignorant or unwary, by those whose interest is opposed to paying principal, and whose principle is opposed to paying interest.

Since the decision of the case, we are informed that Mr. Shuker has repaid to the plaintiff the amount he received for the note, together with interest and costs.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED

The Headquarters of both political parties have again by common consent been established at ISAAC BLUM'S Store, which he has elegantly refitted to meet the requirements of the occasion. This place has become the recognized resort of connoisseurs, who pride themselves on the fact that they smoke Blum's Cigars and pay for them.

This card is published for the information of strangers. It is therefore well for visitors from various parts of the State and abroad, as well as San Francisco drummers and such like, to bear this in mind and act accordingly.

Parties desiring Imported Havanas or Key West Cigars by the box will please call before the present invoice is disposed of.

An unusually fine lot of special Domestic Brands on hand.

CITY.

URBAN "CHARLEY."—For some days past the streets have been enlivened with the presence of an Indian whose personal appearance is by no means noteworthy than his history. This gentleman has procured from the primeval forests of Oregon a head of hair six feet in his moccasins (wherever we believe he wears No. 12 boots,) is slender proportioned, lithe and straight as an arrow. He is not clad in the fantastic toggery of the noble red man, which is at once the pride and glory of the true child of nature. Civilization has contaminated the primitive simplicity of this red man and vitiated his taste for the beautiful, for he wears with a fine air not unbecoming the scion of a long line of sachems, a full "Boston" suit. Surmounting his caput is an old weather-beaten stovepipe chapeau, while from underneath the somewhat slouchy rim several long coils of his black snaky locks depend, which, while in sweet disorder about his shoulders, as he stands, walks, talks and looks, this Salem is certain to attract public attention. He has been strolling about the streets for nearly a week with an air of total indifference to the attractions of metropolitan life, or the conventionalities of city society, and consequently his unexpected and unheralded appearance has been the occasion of numberless jokes as to who he is, and what business called him hither. As we said at first, this Indian has a brief history. It is as follows: This Indian is known by the familiar appellation of "Indian Charley." He belongs to the Umatilla tribe, and was born and reared within the limits of the present reservation. Up to this time he reached manhood's estate, Charley's history does not materially differ from that of the ordinary Indian. We suppose he passed bravely through the usual vicissitudes known only to the pappoose, and in due course of time devoured his peck of dirt. Arriving at man's estate Charley was induced by some bad white man, to imbibe copiously of the accursed "fire-water." In plainer words, Charley got gloriously drunk, and with it he got a strong inclination to go into the carving business. Procuring a knife, Charley, after exchanging compliments with a friend—a member of the same tribe—proceeded in the most pleasant manner possible to demonstrate to his friend his thorough knowledge of human anatomy. He dissected his friend in short order, and while him an admirable subject for a coroner and sexton. For this little piece of amusement, which "Bostons" vulgarly denominate murder, Charley was arrested by the civil authorities and placed on his trial, but the case was finally disposed of the inquiring subject of this brief sketch was "sprung" from the rude walls of the jail on a writ of habeas corpus, and set at liberty. Soon after Wenapsnoot, one of the three sons of the Umatilla tribe, took Charley in hand. He resolved himself into court, judge, jury and sheriff, and arraigned the red-handed murderer before the constituted tribunal. Wenapsnoot, after giving the grave subject in his mind, considered that as a court, he would not pass judgment on the prisoner at once. However, he said, in a very sachem-like manner, that it would be policy for Charley to place himself under the protection of the court for about a year. The Indian whom he had sacrificed in his anxiety to make anatomical investigations had relatives and friends, and the fact of relationship might lead to results not entirely satisfactory to Charley. Charley took the hint, and concluded it would be more politic—more logical for him to be an object of Wenapsnoot than dissected according to the red men's ideas of surgery. This was about three weeks ago, and Charley is daily awaiting the sentence of the court. Some time Charley received a subpena from the U. S. district court to appear as a witness against the man who sold him the "fire-water," for the maddening influence of which he was about to sacrifice his friend in behalf of conscience. The case has not yet come to trial, and Charley is an honored guest of the city. Readers who peruse this paragraph will have no difficulty in readily discerning the subject of this sketch should a chance to meet him on the streets.

STRAWBERRY SCIENCE.—About the 4th of July, Mr. Wm. Garnett, came to Portland. He got on a big spree, and last Saturday set up to Aurora. He obtained some cans of Dr. Gleser, and the same evening he came and went up as far as Hobson's. When about half way between Aurora and Hubbard, Garnett took off a portion of his clothes and cut his arm with a knife. Garnett was found by some men and brought back to Aurora on Tuesday evening. He remained there a few hours and then went out to Barlow's prairie at 12 o'clock. He wandered about some time and arrived at the house of J. C. Wolgamott early on Wednesday morning. By some means he had obtained a dull knife without the knowledge of any of Wolgamott's folks. With the dull weapon he made several unsuccessful attempts to cut his throat. He was found some distance by the blood and found to be drunk of the Molalla in an exhausted condition. His clothes were wet and he must have jumped into the stream with the insane intention of completing the work of self-destruction. The same day, Garnett was conveyed to Oregon City by Wm. Barlow, and after being examined before the proper authorities was adjudged insane and sent to the asylum. Garnett is a German or Swede by birth.

"FIGGERS."—A Washington county contemporary tells the following "goak": A young pair from Nehalem, whom we will call Jack and Sally, went to Portland and into a baker's shop to buy something. Sam asked the baker how he sold pies, the grocer said 'two-bits.' Then Sam asked him if he wouldn't sell three pies for a dime, and the baker assented. Then Sam bought one of the pies and reserved two for his lady. That is about as near as we come to it, isn't it Sally?' She said that he did not much 'spunkins' at 'figger,' but thought that there was a mistake 'somewhere.'

PURCHASED.—WILL BUILD.—The Portland Mercantile have purchased the lot 50x100 on the northeast corner of Yamhill and Fourth street, for the sum of $4,000, on which they propose to erect a two-story building suitable for gymnasium, public hall and other purposes to be decided upon hereafter. The cost of the edifice is calculated at about $5,000. Messrs. Williams & Krumbein will draw plans and specifications of the new building. A committee has been appointed to solicit the liberal-minded citizens in procuring capital in defraying the expense of building. The society is deserving liberal support.

LAST TWO YEOMEN.—We learn that two of the last of the soil who live on a ranch near Corvallis had an "unpleasantness" last week, which resulted in a fight in a field, and the result was a fine of $20 costs, merely for the cost of pounding his opponent's face in a manner as to cause it to assume more than ordinary dimensions. The cause of the difficulty arose from one saying he had the best right to dwell together in unity."

PIONEERS' REUNION.—By way of celebrating the anniversary of their formation, which occurs each case during the present month, Multnomah and Nonpareil Lodges, I. O. G. T., have a reunion this evening at the hall of Third and Alder streets. The doors of the lodge room will be thrown open to the public, and there will be no charge for admission. The programme will consist of musical and literary exercises and a service of season-able refreshments.

ROSES ALICE.—The Corvallis Gazette says: "On the 6th inst., the schooner Alice, Capt. Olsen, and for several months past in the Oregonetta, was run down to Newport preparatory to going to sea. Mr. C. C. Hees has bought an interest in her, and Capt. Hunsaker, former proprietor, will run the lumber trade between Alsea and San Francisco."

REVENUE.—Revenue stamps of all denominations have been received by Judge Denny, Collector of internal revenue, and can be had for sale in the U. S. postoffice, entrance on the street between Fifth and Sixth.

FINAL MEETING.—We are requested by the Pastor to state that there will be a special meeting of the Columbian Temperance Co. No. 3 this evening at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

LETTERS AT W. F. & Co.'s.—Letters remaining in the office of Wells, Fargo July 16th: Antonia Ansbrino, M. D. Allard, W. Buck, F. W. Baker, Mrs. B. Carney 2, Charles Cohn, F. A. Clark, W. DeMott, James Donerly, Chas. Fechheimer, James Fagan, Capt. Harlow, S. P. Hall, Mrs. A. Irwin, Lena Lange, P. F. Miller, Ida Muirhard, L. N. Nicols, C. Nickerson, Mary O'Brien, Capt. Pundhurst, G. B. Reynolds, C. Trickle, Mrs. E. White, A. Wolf.

"MANNING THE BRAKES."—Monnastes' force pump on the west side of First street, between Morrison and Yamhill, is now being pressed into service as street sprinkler. Yesterday afternoon a well known dealer in boots and shoes was observed gallantly "manning the brakes," while a small lad held the hose and laid the dust on the thirsty street and sidewalk.

COURT VACATION.—On Thursday evening, at the conclusion of the argument in the steamboat collision cases between the W. R. T. Co. and O. S. N. Co., the U. S. Court adjourned until next week. Judge Deady has gone up the valley for a few days' rest. The grand jury for the U. S. district court will meet next week.

NEW CYLINDERS.—Patterns for two steam engines have just been finished at the Willamet Iron Works, and the casting will be done next week. These engines are for the steamer Alice, belonging to the O. S. S. Co. The dimensions are: stroke, six feet; bore, seventeen inches.

WILL ADJOURN.—As the supreme court will convene at Salem on Monday next, to-day will be the last day of the State circuit court for Multnomah county for some time. When the court adjourns this afternoon, it will not convene again until the 6th of next September.

THE OREGONIAN AT ASTORIA.—During the summer months Mr. Charles Stevens, of Astoria, will have additional copies of the DAILY OREGONIAN on sale. Parties passing through that place can find the latest news by procuring the OREGONIAN from Mr. Stevens.

NEW WHEEL.—A new Turbine water-wheel, invented by Messrs. Moore & Parker, of Albany, has just been turned out at one of the iron-works of the city. The wheel is thirty inches in diameter, and is capable of driving a large amount of machinery.

FOR REPAIRS.—The little steamer Calliope is now lying at the foot of E street undergoing some repairs. She has temporarily been withdrawn from the line in order to allow workmen to give the boiler an overhauling.

OMITTED.—In the mention yesterday of the second annual meeting of the Oregon Medical Society, the date of meeting was omitted. It will be held in this city on September 2d.

BALL AND BAT.

Order of professional clubs, July 5th, for the national championship: Boston, Athletic, Hartford and St. Louis standing well ahead. The Washingtons, New Havens and Atlantics may be counted out, having lost too many games.

This afternoon the Pioneers and Arcadians will play a game on the grounds west of the academy. On this occasion Mr. Barker will appear for the last time with the Pioneers this season. The time set is 3 o'clock, and a good game is anticipated.

The Bostons have lost four games up to July 4th. For a wonder, the New Havens beat them, 10 to 5, on the 2d inst. The New Haven club has been among the last in the list of professionals, having lost twenty-four games and won three. This victory is more an accident than anything else.

We are in receipt of the following communication from Cornelius under date of July 15, which will best explain itself:

To the Members of the Arcadian B. B. Club.—Sirs: We, the members of the Star B. B. Club, of Cornelius, do challenge you to play a match game of base ball for a ball; said game to be played on the Star ground at Cornelius on Saturday, July 24th, 1875. Game to be called at one o'clock P. M. sharp. Hoping to hear from you soon, we remain yours truly,

THOS. RAYNOR,
HENRY KELSO,
FRANK O'CONNOR,
Directors Star B. B. Club.

THE STAGE.

Geo. Richards, of Maguire's minstrels—here a year ago—has returned to San Francisco from an Eastern trip.

Morrell's San Francisco minstrels (?), who appeared for one night only, though announced for two, at Oro Fino theater, this week, are traveling southward—to-night at Salem.

In San Francisco, we observe, the following are the attractions: At Platt's Hall is Daly's comedy company, from the Fifth Avenue theater, New York city; Hess' English opera company at Maguire's new theater; Dion Boucicault and H. J. Montague, in "Shaughraun," at the California; and variety shows innumerable.

Why will you continue to pay big prices for Clothing while those well known dealers in that desirable article, BECK & WALDMAN, are offering such bargains. The dull times necessitates a great reduction and they propose to keep the public supplied at any sacrifice. Each steamer brings them new goods, and they sell from the entire stock at the reduced rates. Call while the opportunity to buy low is offered. Youths clothing a specialty.

Mr. John Oderkirk fell from a wagon some time since, and striking on his knee was badly hurt. He has been confined for some three weeks, but is now able to walk about.

Barrels are so scarce at present that fishermen along the Columbia have to manufacture their own; and persons were in the city last week purchasing tools for that purpose.

Nowhere in the city are there neater and more productive gardens than those along the bank of King's creek. They are carefully attended by owners, and produce excellent vegetables.

Portland is fast enlarging her boundaries; the trees are disappearing from the hillsides, giving place to neat residences, and very many houses and stores are being erected in the northern part of the city.

In emptying a sack of wheat which came from the vicinity of Walla Walla, a few days ago, the miller employed at McLoran Bros.' flouring mill on Front street, discovered the skeleton of a small weasel which, by some means, had found its way into the grain. The miller declined to take "toll."

IN NEW QUARTERS.—That well-known Clothier, JOS. KOHN, is to be found in his large and elegant store, corner of First and Morrison streets. The new store has been fitted up in a manner calculated to enable Mr. Kohn to display to large and elegant stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, &c., to excellent advantage. The steamer to arrive will bring large invoices delayed with a view to save removal. Mr. Kohn's prices are low and he gives satisfaction invariably.

A Revengeful Organ.

The stomach is a revengeful organ. If we assign it indigestible food, it not only refuses to perform its office, but inflicts upon us unspeakable tortures, such as those of indigestion, colic, cholera morbus, &c. Not content with giving us pain, it frequently inaugurates an excessive and wasting diarrhœa, called dysentery, which carries us to our graves. With a view to prevent these consequences, as soon as the stomach gives notice by premonitory twinges that its cargo is not to its liking, a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters should be swallowed. This admirable digestive cordial will promptly reconcile the refractory organ to its contents, and prevent any of those annoying and possibly fatal results which the presence of indigestible food in the stomach is liable to produce. The Bitters are also a superb tonic, restorative and appetizer.

How many have regretted that they did not take it in time. How easily those lives might have been spared for future usefulness, by WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, a remedy of half a century's standing, cures coughs, colds, whooping-cough, and bronchitis.

IMPORTANT.—Indorsed by the Medical profession. Dr. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR ALL LUNGS cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Chest. Dr. TOWNSLEY'S TOOTHACHE ANODYNE cures in one MINUTE.

THE TURF.

A good deal of feeling is abroad now in our State in regard to turf matters, and some lively times are anticipated at the Washington and Linn county fairs, and at the State Fair, and it may be that some fine trials of speed will be had on the courses near Portland before the rainy season sets in.

The celebrated horse Foster is reported to be in capi city, though we have not seen him, and can say nothing concerning his condition or destination. Ephi Maynard has arrived from east of the mountains, and was seen in our streets yesterday, looking well and stepping proudly as ever. Rumor has it that a match between him and Autocrat, of Mr. Reed's stud, is talked of.

The two Bellfounder colts, Startle and Bellflower, have just returned from Walla Walla in charge of Mr. James Welch. The mare Bellflower is suffering a good deal from a wounded leg, and was taken to the Riverside stable yesterday to receive attention. She went in the mile race 3 in 5 at the Walla Walla meeting on the 5th inst. with Mark Twain and two other horses, from LaGrande. The two LaGrande horses did not attract much attention, for it was a generally conceded fact that neither one could be in condition to cope with the two favorites, as they had just come across the mountains, Mark Twain having had a little more experience on the turf. In one or two heats the mare broke up badly, owing perhaps to the fact that her trainer had been too unwell to give her strict attention for a few days preceding the race, but when she came down to work in earnest she showed that the confidence of her friends was well based. On the first the Union says says the mare was about to pass both the La Grande horses, and one of them did some good running and came near crowding the mare out of the track and out at a side gate, but she outstripped them both, and leaving them, went for Mark, coming out only a length behind him, his time being 2:37¼, the two LaGrande horses being distanced. On the second heat the mare got a bad start, and Mark won it in 2:33½. On the third heat Bellflower got a fair send-off, and did her work up well, winning in 2:39¼. The fourth was a dead heat in 2:41. The fifth was a bad start for the mare, but she made up for it when she got to work, and came in winner in 2:41. The sixth heat the mare also made a bad break, and lost sixty yards in the beginning. She still regained the confidence of her friends, and, the way she laid in the licks, it was thought a certain thing as she got ahead on the home stretch, but prosperity did not agree with her, and she broke up, losing the heat in 2:40½ and the race. The Walla Walla Union, which had a reporter on the ground, says: "Our view of the case is this: Bellflower is a bad starter, and a bad breaker on the turns—she always loses badly when she breaks—but on straight work she can out-foot Twain easily. She also appears to have more of the staying quality in her than the horse. On the other hand, the horse is very quiet and cool, sticks to his work well and is a good horse. But, if exact justice were done both animals, there are but few that would back the horse even against the mare, and she proved herself to be the faster goer in every brush on straight work. The animals are both Walla Walla raised, both young, and, if no accident befall them, will leave records behind them. As it is, they have made the best race ever run in either Oregon or Washington Territory."

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1875

THE DISINHERITED SON

He has made his own bed, said Major Martindale 'and he must he on it

Major Martindale folded up a certain obnoxious letter as he made this mental remark, and laying it in a little gilded letter rack beside him in company with a tailor's bill a ticket to some forthcoming amateur concert and a printed circular concerning insurance policies went deliberately on with his breakfast

He was a handsome elderly gentleman, slightly bald with bright brown eyes straight Roman features and one of those square firmly moulded mouths which betoken a decided tendency to have one's own way And as he drank his coffee and daintily manipulated his French rolls broiled birds and fresh strawberries served in a garniture of their own leaves he mused over the contents of this same letter

It is a great mistake to allow servants to bring in one's correspondence at meal times reflected Major Martindale It is almost sure to interfere with one's digestion I'll never read another letter at breakfast time! What could possess my son to go and get married in this abrupt nonsensical sort of way? Says he 'feared it would be impossible to gain my consent Well, he had good reason for his fears He'll find it still more impossible after marriage than before He knows my ideas and if he don't choose to conform to em, it's his business—not mine.

And so after finishing the strawberries and daintily cleansing his filbert nailed fingers in a ruby colored finger bowl Major Martindale wrote three words on a thick, gray sheet of note paper, inclosed it in an envelope affixed a stamp, and gave it to the servant to post And the three words were these

'Consider yourself disinherited."

That was the way in which Major Martindale disposed of his only son

Not that he did not love Harry—the bright frank boy, who was all that was left of his young wife, the one romantic dream and tender memory of his life time—but he liked his own way better And it is surprising how obstinate a man can be when he once turns his full attention to the business.

* * * * * * *

"Disinherited? Oh, Harry! And for me!

Mrs Harry Martindale, a pretty, blue-eyed woman, with light hair that hovered itself around her face like sunshine little dots of dimples in cheek and chin and a round fresh mouth, like a baby's looked piteously up in to her husband's face as she spoke

Harry Martindale shrugged her shoulders the momentary cloud passed away from his face and he answered bravely

'Never mind, Ariel We can afford you and I, to be independent of a crusty old gentleman's money I'll see about that clerkship in St Louis.'

'Half the world from me, Harry"

"It won't be for long, pet Cheer up! I'll send for you when I get well established and we'll have a little bird's nest of a home without asking any favors from any one

Ariel smiled through the dew drops that sparkled in her eyes She is easily consoled A girl's heart at eighteen is blessedly elastic

Major Martindale elected to go to Atlantic City for the hot weeks that season Why, he did not especially particularize to himself Saratoga was dull at Newport one was half a mile away from the beach, Long Branch had puffed upon his fastidious taste So, to Atlantic City he went, rather enjoying the very perceptible nets and snares spread for him by the various widows, old maids and gushing damsels who were there engaged in the great hus band hunting campaign

'I wonder if they know I am a fool' said the major as he strolled on the beach with a cigar in his mouth

But one day the major found himself forced to give up a picnic on account of a strange and unusual feeling of lassitude and languor, and the next he was in bed

'This looks serious, said the major to himself 'I've heard of a low fever hanging about, but I never thought of its attacking me!'

The doctor came, twirled his watch chain wrote a prodigious Latin prescription and shook his head

People made haste to vacate the rooms in the vicinage of No 99, and the major began dimly to comprehend through a mist that was slowly gathering around his brain, that it was likely to go hard with him

'I will stay and nurse him doctor I have had the fever, ja year or two since and do not fear it, and I am handy with such people

"But my child, you've no idea what you are undertaking !"

'Yes, I have' answered the soft low tones "and we must not let him die for want of proper care"

"Is your aunt willing"

'Quite so"

"Then you may try, but take my word for it, you'll back down at the end of the first week'

Major Martindale heard these words spoken as it were out of the clouds, as he might have heard the thunder of the waves on the beach, outside, or the ringing of the church bells, without at all connecting them with himself Strange white a vision of dreams and shadows his soul and brain had entered into!

But one day he came back out of the darkness and the immensity, and the restless whirling to and fro of the waves of life, weal and white, and helpless as a baby

And there sewing by the window sat a soft eyed young girl all in white with glimmering hair, long lashes, and delicately-rounded features

'Pardon me" hoarsely uttered the major, with a little souvenir of his old fashioned courtesy and politeness', but I don't know who you are '

Hush! said the young lady gently 'You must not talk I am here to nurse you"

And then he found himself taking a draught from her practised fingers and then drifting off asleep

'I have been very ill, haven't I?' said he when the doctor came at noon, as usual

"Yes you have been as close to the Valley of the Shadow more than once as a man can be in his life, Doctor Delagood answered gravely

The major shuddered a little—heathenish old Sybarite as was The idea of death appalled him and he scarcely cared to hear how near he had stood to the solution of the great problem

"But you pulled me through," said he with a long breath

'Yes I and your patient little nurse who has just gone for an hour's sleep"

"Who is she, doctor?' asked the major, anxiously

She is the niece of one of the lady boarders Martin, I think they call her Her aunt went away as soon as the fever declared itself—in fact it riddled the hotel pretty nearly—but this girl would not allow any one to suffer for want of care and nursing so she courageously remained to take care of you '

'Why did she do that?' asked the major, a little lump rising in his throat.

'Why did Florence Nightingale go out to the Crimea? Why are all women born heroines at heart?' retorted the doctor

'God bless her!' muttered the major

And then he turned his head to one side and a big drop or two plashed down on the pillow

Day by day he lay there in slow convalescence, while the pretty young nurse ministered to him

My dear said the major one day I think I am beginning to realize now what the bless ing of a daughter would have been had God given me one. I have grown very fond of you."

The soft blue eyes beamed smilingly down upon him as he spoke

And I of you," answered the girl in low tender accents

Are you much attached to aunt—Mrs Fessenden I believe her name is

Yes said the girl, half doubtingly, I suppose so I never saw her before she asked me to spend the season with her at Atlantic City last month

Is that all you have been with her?

That's all'

Then,' said the major I shall ask her to let me adopt you Will you be my daughter henceforth"

She threw her arms around his neck and sobbed upon his breast

Do you really love me? Do you really want me? asked she

' I am all alone my child said the major "And you will be the sunshine of my house

But you have a son?

"Yes,' answered the major, slightly frowning "Poor Henry' But he has estranged himself from me'

"Forever?'

"Yes, forever! (Sickness you see, had taken none of the inherent obstinacy out of our old hero's character)

Papa —she knelt beside the satin pillowed invalid chair which had been wheeled out into the sunshine on the broad verandah —' am to call you papa am I not?'

'Of course you are dearest'

The major's hand stroked down her bright hair with a tender touch as he spoke

'Then papa, tell me why you are estranged from him'

He married in disregard to my wishes the major sternly answered

Is that such an unpardonable crime

Unpardonable See here Mary if he had not made such a fool such an idiot of himself tonight I have been your husband You might have been then my daughter in very truth Strange things have happened

But that could not be

'Why not?' demanded the major

Because he is my husband already Oh papa—dear dear father—forgive me I am not Mary Masters and yet I am" My real name is Mary Ariel Martindale and Harry at St Louis is my husband I only came here to stay, with Aunt Fessenden until he could make that little home for us which we had both hoped and dreamed of Will you forgive us both papa for my sake?

I suppose I shall have to and the major in extreme bewilderment kiss me dear Upon the whole Harry isn't quite such a fool as I believed him to be' And you knew who I was all the while'

Of course I did

And you kept dark? Sly little puss Well Mary—I mean Ariel—

Yes papa

We'll telegraph to Harry to come right back There's only three of us Let us try and be happy together

So through Ariel's blue eyes and heaven sent face Harry Martindale was disinherited and through her he was received back again into his own inheritance

Own up sir that I knew what I was about said Harry as he stood there with Ariel leaning on his arm

You dog!' said the old gentleman facetiously, poking him in the ribs you've got the prettiest little wife going

The decrease in gold shipments from this coast to the East is commented on at some length by the California papers which are led to believe that money is going to be quite abundant during the coming autumn and a good deal of capital is now seeking in San Francisco lest a surplus of available funds later in the season should bring about a very material reduction in rates The Bee says that money in that market has been held at one per cent for months but the disposition among those who have reserved their funds is now more toward employing them at present rates. In view of a probable approaching great ease in money there is a desire to get money placed at existing rates for as long terms as possible In the same manner a disposition manifests itself to get in loans before a more plentiful and general supply of money shall have imparted buoyancy to the market The mint has been open since the 2d both at San Francisco and at Carson but the real action commenced only since the 5th The supply of coin will now be ample This is the season when in years of active wheat market there is a demand for money to "move the crops" but this year the English market is not such as to induce orders and growers are not willing sellers hence the requisition for money for the interior is not at present as large as usual. There is, therefore a tendency to greater ease with a multiplicity of lenders The rates of exchange are therefore low

Since February there has been a progressive decline in the monthly shipments of coin to New York exclusive of the shipment on account of the the railroad company in June The purchase of silver bullion about $3 000 000 by the treasury, said paid for in coin was a diversion of that much of direct shipments from the mines and as a consequence the amount required to be replaced in the remittances by the coin paid out by the treasury hence an apparent larger drain of coin than usual

Trade Matters

Manifest more animation in our local market to day than has been witnessed before during the week, and some important transactions are noticed There is a sharp advance in coffee all around and all grades here have been marked up during the week 1@1¼ cents ₰ lb Sugars are also ⅛c higher

In the produce market, however the principal degree of activity was shown grain and wool being in brisk demand the latter coming forward quite freely both from east of the mountains and up the valley Quotations however are unchanged

While we think the present slight revival in trade matters will perhaps react, there are indications that the fall business will set in quite lively The wool clip which is now moving rapidly will all be placed by the time the wheat crop is ready We notice the following in regard to a wool transaction in Albany in the Daily Press of the 16th

The wool pool in the Farmers' warehouse which was to be sold to the highest bidder was purchased by N Blum There are about 70 000 pounds in the pool We were unable to learn what it sold for

A great deal of the wool product of our State has been sold in the same manner this year and growers have realized the highest current rates

Hay—$12 to 18 ₰ ton.

Rye—Good—$1 2 ₰

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The report went abroad on the streets to day that several lots had been received from San Francisco and quite a speculative demand was at once produced Some lots that had been on the market for some time were taken one of 3 0 bushels another of 1 50 The terms were reserved but we have reason to believe that at least $1 60 per cental was paid $1 5 having been refused Our San Francisco dispatches quote choice old at $1 8, the highest figure reached in that market for a long time The advance is not yet accounted for fully and we may have to await the mails before receiving full particulars

FLOUR—This commodity has been fluctuating a good deal during the past week and is perhaps a cent lower than yesterday, then according quotations varying from $ 7 50@ per barrel for the leading brands outside Brands and superfine unchanged

OATS—The receipts have been light to day in fact nothing to note, and no change in quotations in our local market but the San Jose sale to take grams, $2 40 per cental found elsewhere in this col umn will be apt to encourage holders to demand an advance, material advance on our last quotation is there are a few lots in this market which the holders would like to place just now at the latter prices, freight and insurance off

BARLEY—We hear of no train actions to establish prices and we quote nominally at $1 2 ₰ cwt for common and $1 5 @ 1 10 for choice

MILL FEED—There is still a tendency to a reduced demand. We quote bran at $14@16 50 ₰ ton shorts $2 0@ 2 ton mixed feed $ @ 2 50@ 3 00 oil cake meal $30 with little stock in market

HAY—A full supply in the country quotable at $10@11 ₰ ton for fair to best timothy loose and $11 baled.

POTATOES—The market is in fair supply at 5@ 1 ₰ bushel.

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market quotable at 2@3 nominally

APPLES (DRIED)—There is a fair demand for fair lots either in sacks or kegs the latter preferred at 7@7½@ ₰ lb Exports are increasing.

BACON—Sides are held at our former quotations of 11@12 ₰ lb and are in full supply shoulders are unchanged from 8@9c while the market is overstocked with hams and quotations for common lots are 10@12c ₰ lb though they must be a little extra to command the latter figure.

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 16c ₰ lb in kegs or tins and is in brisk demand

BUTTER—We quote fair to choice roll at 22@ ₰ extra print for table use 20@ common solid 18@20c

CHICKENS—The market is in liberal supply quotations for full grown $4—3 00 per dozen spring $ 50@2 00

EGGS—The market which has ranged between 22 and 0 cents per dozen during the week seemed to deal weaker to day and some dealers and buyers refused to quote above 20c cts per dozen while others gave 21 cts and still others 22 cts One item was added that circular letters giving 25@30 per cent off current rates for stale and rotten eggs

BEE SWAX—Some very fine arrival have been noted during the week and the market is supplied with an excellent grade Slaughterers price ranging from 25@28 per cent after 75 and 50@ foot

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is light at 3 per lb

DRESSED HOGS—There is something doing for the local trade at 6@6c ₰ lb

HIDES AND TALLOW—Price for hides are still down on account of the many in market reach ing the interior and damaged are quoted 1½@2c lb for dry hides 6c for green culls 5@6c 7 0 lb dry hides 5@6c lb dry salt hides green, mink sheep skins 25@50c each otter skins, beaver $1@3

WOOL—The scarcity of activity noted in the trade last week has continued uninterrupted until now As before prices have depended largely on the quality and condition Quotations are from 18@ for dry bright fine merinos to 24@ from Eastern Oregon 26@ but a lot of valley wool was on the market to day for which 30c ₰ lb was asked and refused this season to date have been about $1 500 000 paid out
